Biography

Harold H. Haak was born on June 1, 1935, in Madison, Wisconsin. He received a B.A. at the University of Wisconsin in political science and later an M.A. in 1958. Haak went on to receive a Ph.D. from Princeton University. He was hired as an assistant professor at San Diego State University where he became an associate professor of political science, teaching from 1962 to 1969. Haak also served as Dean of Public Administration and Urban Studies at San Diego. He left that position in 1971 to become the Vice President for Academic Affairs at California State University, Fresno (CSUF).

Two years later Haak became the vice president (in 1974 the position was designated as chancellor) of the newly named University of Colorado at Denver (UCD). Haak helped to shape and define the university and its role in the innovative Auraria Higher Education Center (a shared campus for three separate institutions). His efforts were recognized in 1980 when he was awarded the University of Colorado Medal. Haak served six and a half years in Colorado until he returned to Fresno as president of CSUF.

Haak's presidency spanned eleven and a half years, from 1980 to 1991. Haak served on various committees, both academic and public service, and was voted one of Fresno's most powerful people in 1990. He stepped down as president in 1991. From 1992 to 1993, Haak served as Senior Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs for the California State University system on an interim basis.

In 1993 Haak returned to Fresno to teach political science at CSUF. In 2000, Harold Haak became president of Fresno Pacific University. He retired in 2002.

Scope and Content Note

The Harold H. Haak papers measure 4 linear feet and date from 1954 to 2000, 2003. The collection is arranged in two series: Personal and Professional. The bulk of the collection chronicles Haak's abiding interest in organizational behavior and his career in administration. Haak has annotated some sections in the collection to clarify the context of his involvement and its significance.

Photographs of Haak and his wife along with letters from colleagues can be found in the Personal series (1954-1971, 1985-1996, 2003). There is much biographical information in the applications and vitas. The Mubox Bugs is a children's book that Haak wrote and published in 2003. The book was illustrated by Fresno State art professor Dan Nadaner and his two children, Jenny and Tommy. The story was also set to music by retired Fresno Pacific University music professor Larry Warkentin. In addition to the book, there is a CD with recordings of the narration (as read by Haak) and music (performed by Warkentin). The ROTC folder deals with Haak's experience as a cadet in 1954, during the height of the McCarthy era. Haak's uniform was taken away because he once knew someone later investigated by the FBI.

Most of the materials in the Professional series (1962-2000) are arranged chronologically by the different phases of Haak's career beginning with his professorship at San Diego State University from 1961 to 1971. Only the two subseries at the end, Collective bargaining and Written work, do not follow the chronological sequence. Most of this series focuses on his presidency at CSUF. Haak's impact on the university is noted in the presidential evaluations.

Haak's efforts in the area of athletics was highly visible. He wrote an article on strategies for managing a successful athletic program in "Athletics: Presidential Problem and Prospects," published in 1990 (Professional, Written work, Published articles, 1985, 1988 and undated). Haak had encountered various problems of this nature as the newly appointed president of CSUF.

Throughout his career as a faculty leader and an academic administrator, Haak has been an ardent proponent of "shared governance" and "collegiality" and wrote extensively on the implications of collective bargaining for higher education.

In addition to his published work, of which many are articles, Haak wrote two fictional narratives. Parable of a President and Victim to Victor chronicle the trials and tribulations of a fictional university president, Hubert Jones. The two books were well received among Haak's peers and their comments are filed under the heading Professional, Written work, Correspondence, 1969, 1980-1989.
